WEAVER: I was just thinking what a lovely house we have. Do you like it? Have you been here before? Did you happen to see an owl?

CONWAY: Sure, it's a nice house.

CONWAY: No, I've never been here before.

CONWAY: I didn't see any owl.

Games

The image shows a character sheet for a game, likely Dungeons & Dragons, with various polyhedral dice scattered on it. The dice include a d4 (brown), a d6 (yellow), a d8 (red), a d10 (black), a d12 (yellow), a d20 (black), and several others in different colors like blue, green, and orange. The character sheet has fields for Name, Age, Height, Weight, Gender, Race, and Occupation. There are also sections for Advantages, Quirks, and a list of abilities. A pencil is visible at the bottom right.

Character Sheet Fields:

- Name:
- Age: 10 Height: 2 Weight: 2
- Gender: Male
- Race:
- Occupation:

Advantages: (includes languages and literacy)
 Pick one. Thy more.
Can talk

Quirks:
 List at least one.
Hates being called

Abilities:
 *Shape-shifting can be an Advantage, but Basic for that shape must 1pt=1pt

And now for something completely different

Design Goals:

- The generation of a rich narrative in the players' minds
- High re-playability
- Non pre-scripted side-switching mechanic
- Introduces the players to the world of Posthuman (without giving away too much)

Design Goals:

- The generation of a rich narrative in the players' minds
- High re-playability
- Non pre-scripted side-switching mechanic
- Plays equally well with any number of players
- Introduces the players to the world of Posthuman (without giving away too much)

Primary design goal:

The creation of an ongoing story in the players' minds that emerges from interaction between every card, die-roll, action and player-interaction in the game.

CAMP

Regain 2 health. If you are in a safe house you may regain an additional health or morale. You may use relevant skills and equipment on yourself or on other players if they are on the same terrain type.

HAUNTING

MUTANT

You dream of a gorgeous figure that radiates presence and leads you back through your life, commenting on a number of events therein. You wake up with a start and swear you can feel the figure near you.

Deduct your mind from current morale:

-5 to -2 = -3 morale,

-1 to 0 = -2 morale,

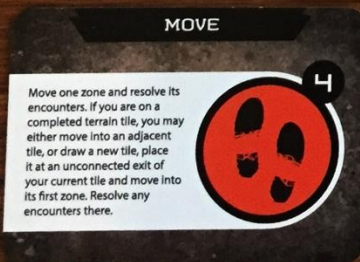

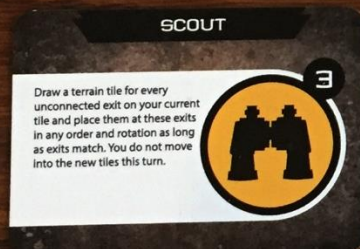

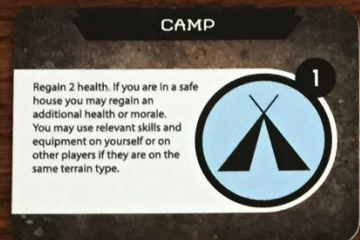

+1 to +3 = -1 morale,

+4 upwards = no effect.

Instead of losing morale you can choose to take a scar card.

STALKER

MUTANT

*You hear a voice in your head: "I've been following you."
Your boots stop dead in their tracks. "Not in a creepy way."
You look around and a figure steps into view.
Mutation is evident, but they are fairly attractive.
"I have a desperate crush on you. We should get to know each other..."*

Do you:

Attack them: draw a mutant minion card and resolve combat.

(or) Welcome the figure's approach and get intimate with them:
draw a scar card and regain 1 morale.

HAUNTING

THE ORPHANAGE

HUMAN

*While exploring a house you encounter a couple with four children, most of whom do not look like them at all.
They are starving and beg you for help.*

If you decide to help them:

Give them 2 food and regain 1 morale.

If you don't help:

Lose 2 morale.

BARRICADED SCHOOL

HUMAN

You approach the barricaded gates of a school. Guards wave at you to stop and state your business. You ask them for shelter.

Roll a mind test.

If you succeed:

Leave this card in play and treat the zone
you are currently on as a safe house.
It is discarded once you move on.

If you fail:

Discard and move on.

TOGETHERNESS

EVENT

All players count as being on the same terrain type for the purposes of trading, equipment and skill usage.
This card remains in play until you draw the next event card.

[solo game]:

Regain 1 morale for every active follower. Then discard.

SPRING RENEWAL

SEASONAL EVENT

While this card is in play, players regain an additional morale when camping.
This card remains in play until you draw a seasonal event.

A Timeline of Events, Part 1

DAY 9

WPM: WPM WPM WPM

WEATHER: SNOWY

PART OF ME WANTS TO LOVE THE SNOW. THE OTHER PART IS SHEARING AT EVERY DIVE MY BOOT IS TAKING IN THIS KNEE-DEEP WHITE MUSH. AT LEAST IT'S SLOWING THEM AS MUCH AS IT'S SLOWING US. HOPEFULLY.

0 10

YOU FOLLOW THE TUNE INTO THE TREES
AND COME ACROSS A SMALL HOUSE WITH A THATCHED ROOF. YOU APPROACH THE DOOR,
THE BASS-LINE STRUMMING YOUR THIRSTY
SOUL-STRINGS. WITHOUT THINKING ABOUT IT YOU TRY THE DOOR HANDLE. IT OPENS AND YOU PEER IN.

WEATHER: PERFECT DAY

"The radio's packed it in again, K. Could you take a look at it? Can't have a party without music!"

Kat was always a big music nerd, hopefully this will trigger a response.

She looks directly at me, but nothing registers

She does that whistling thing she always does when her mind is miles away

She gives me the silent treatment
