But what about Quests?

Early Quest Outline

1. Evening. It's Raining. Aloy wakes from unconsciousness, lying in a smoking crater. Aloy stands, dazed, and starts moving towards a burning village in the distance.
2. Aloy enters the village. A villager approaches Aloy and begs her not to pursue the machine that attacked the village, claiming it's too dangerous.
3. Aloy being Aloy, she follows the path of destruction out of the village passing the bodies of Nora warriors slain by the beast.
4. A herd of machines blocks her path.
5. Aloy picks a machine off from the herd in the plain and overrides it, making it her mount. Now with a ride, she makes haste to pursue the rampaging machine.
6. Aloy catches up to the hunting party sent after the beast in the nearby mountains. All but one are dead. The last hunter tells Aloy to beware, the beast is near.
7. From nearby, a Thunderjaw shrieks and attacks. Aloy engages with and defeats the machine.

Emphasize Openness

An aerial, high-angle shot of a vast, arid desert canyon. The landscape is characterized by deep, layered rock formations in shades of orange, red, and brown. A winding river or stream flows through the lower left portion of the frame. In the center of the canyon, a small industrial or military installation is visible, featuring a central building with a tall, thin smokestack that releases a plume of white smoke. Several smaller structures and what appear to be vehicles or equipment are scattered around this central point. A large, white, hand-drawn style arrow forms a loop, starting from the bottom right, curving around the top, and pointing down towards the central building. The text "Emphasize Story" is overlaid in the lower left quadrant.

Initial Armory Feedback

- Bad Readability
- Overly Simple
- Uninteresting
- Like a bad Killzone level
 - How do you make a good Killzone Level?

Lessons Learned from the Past

EG – Readability

- Entrances, exits, alternate paths/flanking options need to be clear to the player.
- The players also needs to recognize where the enemies are
- It needs to be clear what can be used as cover
- This needs to be done in conjunction with vis/envart/lighting Ex : Light attracts players

Optimizing use of environment

- Multi staged encounter
- Routes lead player efficiently through environment
- Provide opportunities for flanking
- Keep multiple paths within the same area
- Create variety in heights
