@wanderlustin

love is a mess and so am i:

a very brief exploration of how I approach love, sex, and intimacy through editing & design

hi i'm saf and i'm here to yell about THEME
(and also editing)

- ★ narrative designer & editor (& podcaster)
- ★ Dynacorp, Delicious World, Love Is Dead, Intimacy, if not us, Conversation with your Genitals (jam game), etc.
- ★ was previously aro/ace, iffy on identity now!!
- ★ very into empathy and emotional design

I literally only learned the emotion of love a year ago!!

but even when I was extremely non-sexual I craved intimacy in the games I played. Kind of how I imagine asmr works for some people?

Obv i don't speak for all ace folks

Also i find tragedy and shit way hotter than fluffy stuff so uhhhhhhh

I started working on a dating sim and had to actually THINK about how the hell to convert my feelios into romantic/intimate feelios for allo people.

(allo meaning allosexual & alloromantic)

choice and agency

reward and punishment

choice and agency

- ★ player gets *feedback – romanceable character responding consistently according to character and player's choices
- ★ sense of “will they won't they like me” — there's the fun in flirting and learning about the person you like, how to bring that into a game?
- ★ surprise and trepidation — linked to the above; having emotional rises and falls
- ★ the fun of discovery! both of romance interest & self & game world

reward and punishment

- ★ could be in the sexy way ;)
- ★ fluffy game? FLUFFY FEEDBACK – if the tone & theme of the game are fun and light, then even negative feedback should be the same
- ★ fun with mechanics for everyone! — finding a way to have fun with mechanics & branching to design a fun romance
- ★ they can also be bad (on purpose) — my own personal game explores how games w/ romance can encourage manipulation, lying, etc.

a little more on feedback to player

on Overwatch (fun fluffy escapism) I didn't want the player to feel awful even when earning "negative relationship points"*

rewarded regardless with dialogue, different info, fun interactions, though they may be more platonic bringing the player into the right headspace for the game.

a little more on feedback to player

big drive behind this for me was also like... if someone's playing a game for interactive romance then they prob don't want to click a bunch and get nothing out of it.

i wanted to respect the player's time & energy!!!

This shit needs to be designed in from the ground up tbh. Poly relationship dynamics? Asexual-but-still-intimate relationship? How will this be negotiated with the player?

These things have like, a bunch of hurdles to figure out!!

Related: with multiplayer games (like that one jackbox one about monsters dating) involving fake relationship dynamics, you gotta think about the fact that a lot of people are really uncomfy with flirting with friends and design to minimize that!

dynamics between npcs & players and players & players will be extremely different

EDITING!!! i'm a comprehensive games editor (e.g. i also edit for design)

- ★ worked with Aubs on Intimacy as an editor!
- ★ tried to find ways to word questions to encourage players to openly interact with the game & other players
- ★ expanding yes-or-no questions into open questions to prompt deeper discussion and thought
- ★ changing words slightly so they would have different connotations that might feel less daunting yet encourage similar thinking & discussion
- ★ language is important!

EDITING!!! i'm a comprehensive games editor (e.g. i also edit for design)

- ★ Basically what I was talking about with design, theme, and intention except as an editor!!
- ★ Except obv as an editor it's not my work, it's about me helping devs to more clearly express their intentions and connect with players
- ★ Also I can come from a more neutral pov than a designer — I can approach as both player and designer.

because really, isn't this all about connection???

designing & editing for games about sex & love & intimacy has done me good

- ★ Working on games like Intimacy & Convo with your Genitals helped me have those internal dialogues with myself too
- ★ I would never have approached games like these as a player, but becoming an editor has made me do that exact thing
- ★ I also wouldn't have written Convo with your Genitals!
- ★ I've had new interactions that have changed me, that I only could've had through games holy shit, empathetic & intimate games can change your life.

Pleasure of the Senses...

Sensual Pleasure and Pacing: Narrative / Game Design

PROBLEM?:

Sensual Pleasure and Pacing: The “Warm Bath”

- Immediate indulgence in sensuality
- All parties aware/eager for sensual pleasure
- Focus on mature, healthy gratification

Example Scene:
Assassin's Creed: Brotherhood

Sensual Pleasure and Pacing: The “Elastic Band”

- Sensuality on “backburner”, getting closer to surface until BOOM!
- Characters unaware OR resisting/ignoring for reasons
- Focus on tantalization, tension, delayed gratification

Example Scene:
Dragon Age II – Fenris scene

Sexual Negotiations

Emina Melonic

Our current culture denies and suppresses masculinity and men are guilty for simply being men.

But the idea that promoting a culture of consent would ruin seduction altogether is still deeply rooted.

We'll go to jail for a bit of a flirt!

Men won't even dare get into a lift alone with a woman!

There will be no mystery left!

LIVING

AGENCY

GAME DEVELOPERS CONFERENCE

MARCH 18–22, 2019 | #GDC19

Why is agency important?

Because loss of control
ISN'T FUN

Games can set a great example of how to do consent right!

In Choices consent is always key.

GAME DEVELOPERS CONFERENCE
MARCH 18-22, 2019 | #GDC19

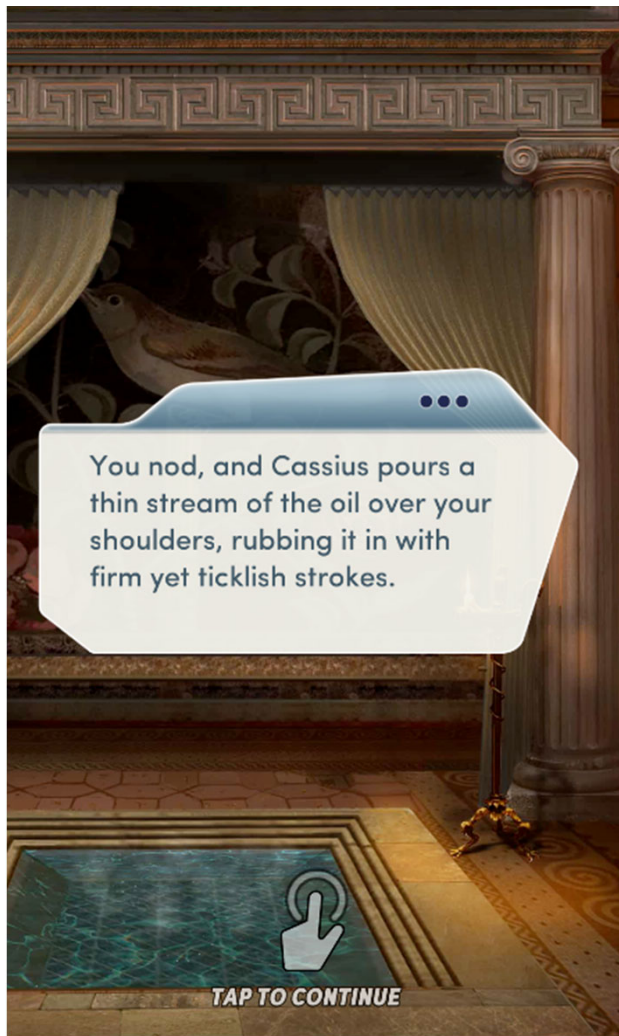

Consent can look like:

- LI expresses attraction, gives compliments.
Player can respond to compliment.
- LI says what they feel/want.
Player can agree/disagree/redirect.
- LI asks direct permission.
- Players get a choice to initiate/progress.

But what about “bad boys”?

Danger and Consent:

- Use language to evoke a sense of danger without actually violating consent.
- Use signs of respect, like the character being a good lover, to show the danger doesn't threaten agency.

EVERY GIRL WANTS A BAD BOY WHO WILL BE GOOD JUST FOR HER.

Amazing Quotes And Sayings

GDC

GAME DEVELOPERS CONFERENCE

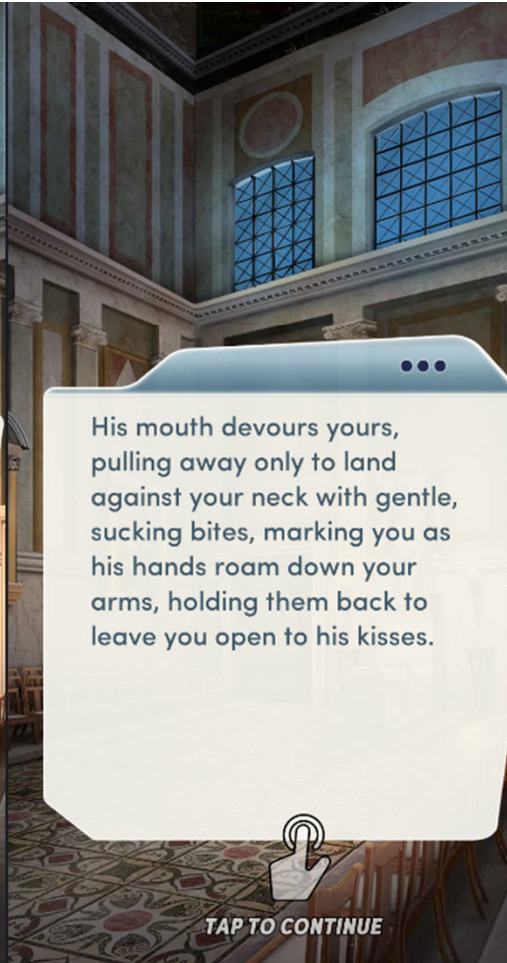

MARCH 18–22, 2019 | #GDC19

You cup your hands around Antony's strong jaw, pulling his face to yours. Suddenly he spins you both around, so your back is up against the podium as he kisses you.

TAP TO CONTINUE

His mouth devours yours, pulling away only to land against your neck with gentle, sucking bites, marking you as his hands roam down your arms, holding them back to leave you open to his kisses.

TAP TO CONTINUE

MARC ANTONY

I've wanted you since I saw you the day I returned. There is no woman like you, in Rome or Gaul.

TAP TO CONTINUE

FRENCHIE

I...

Want you too.

Want to stop.

Conclusion

- Consent is part of player agency.
- Agency feels powerful. Feeling powerful is sexy. Feeling wanted is sexy.

Let Love Interest Characters:

- Show their feelings for the player character.
- Express what they want.
- Show restraint until encouraged, then break control from the strength of their passion.
- Respect “no.”

Let Player Characters:

- Give and receive compliments.
- Initiate physical escalation.
- Have any attempt at pursuit see an immediate rewarding response.
- Disagree, challenge and change love interests' minds.

If you don't love me at my worst, then you don't deserve me at my best.

5 Steps for Designing Sex Game Systems

Robert Yang www.debacle.us

Content warning: some sexualized images and non-explicit nudity, discussion of sex acts

GAME DEVELOPERS CONFERENCE
MARCH 18–22, 2019 | #GDC19

My sex games

- Radiator 2
 - Hurt Me Plenty
 - Succulent
 - Stick Shift
- Cobra Club
- Rinse and Repeat
- The Tearoom

STEP 1: Foreplay / brainstorm

Start with something as specific and concrete as possible

- . an erotic situation?
- . an intimate image?
- . a sexy gesture / act?

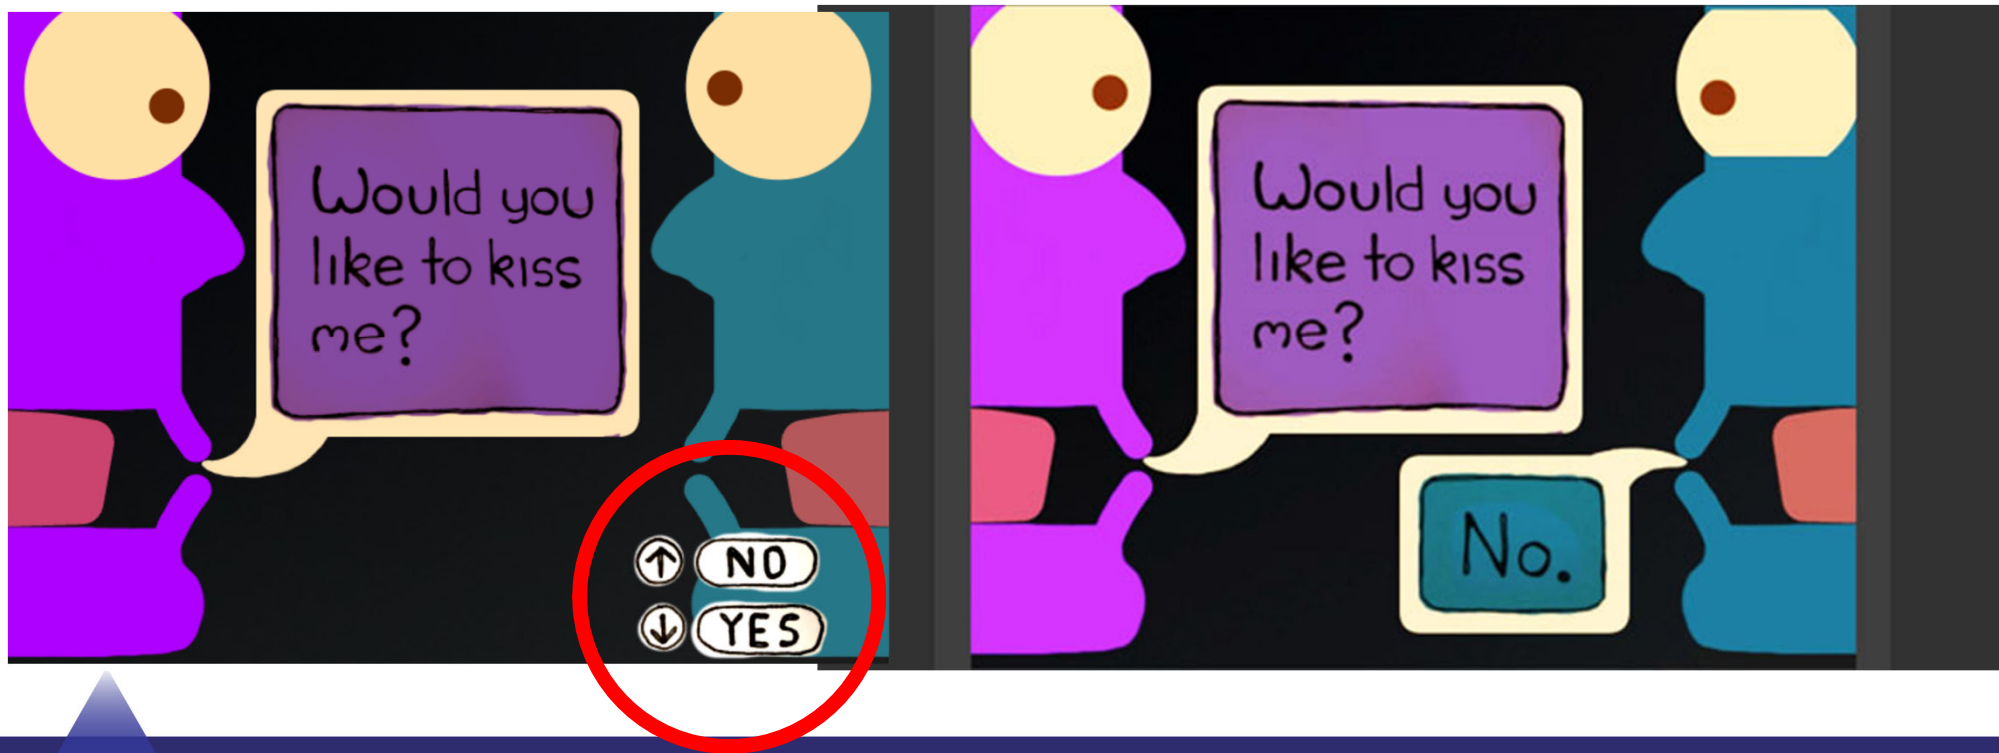

STEP 2: Consent model

Connect foreplay to a consent model -- depict / simulate setting boundaries!

- narrative scene?
- compatible inputs or choices?
- negotiation system?

Consent example: Realistic Kissing Simulator (matching compatible inputs)

Consent example: Ladykiller In A Bind (negotiation system, balance needs / points)

Consent example: Texas Hold'em Poker
(people reading, limited info, fold at any time)

Some game design problems in consent

- how to model revocable continuous consent?
- “enthusiastic consent” ethics and models?
- (negotiation in Civ games is terrible)

STEP 3: Unpack the bodies involved

Consider the identities / politics of your game characters, and then link it back to the consent model

But: nothing about them without them
(don't thoughtlessly sexualize someone else)
(ffs, talk to people!... and pay them)

Body example: Hurt Me Plenty

(can't trust YouTubers; I felt I had to use a white masc body)

GAME DEVELOPERS CONFERENCE

MARCH 18-22, 2019 | #GDC19

Body example: Tusks

countering (racist?) Tolkien-era orc stereotypes

-> body-positive intersectional queer orc collectives

-> orcs think; autonomous NPC AI might disagree with you

STEP 4: Let the tension breathe

THE TENSION IS YOUR GAMEPLAY

THE TENSION IS YOUR GAMEPLAY

THE TENSION IS YOUR GAMEPLAY

If it gets complicated or difficult to design, then that means you are actually thinking about sex

Tension example: NSFWare

(it's fun to be confused about "what to do")

Tension example: The Tearoom (police sabotage consent)

STEP 5: Design some aftercare

Ramp down from all the action

Time for listening / talking / reflection / care

- a cutscene?
- score screen or rating? (very one-way though)
- dialogue choices? survey?
- care actions? healing / cleaning as a system?

Aftercare example: Consentacle

(players discuss scores at end of the game)

REFLECT UPON YOUR OUTCOME AND DISCUSS

TOTAL SATISFACTION (BOTH PLAYERS)	YOUR ROMANTIC ENCOUNTER...	WHO HAS MORE SATISFACTION?	AMIDST THIS TANGLE OF LIMBS AND TENTACLES, YOU...
0-1	...was just kind of... okay?	+6 or more for them	...seemed to desire only whatever your partner did, and nothing more.
2-4	...managed to be adequate for routine maintenance of intimate needs.	+3-5 for them	...were left aching with desire and unfulfilled, trembling at your partner's satiated smile.

Aftercare example: Fight Night Round 2
(cutman system; healing as tender gameplay)

To review, FIVE STEPS FOR SEX GAME DESIGN:

1. Start with a concrete gesture / image
2. Derive a consent model
3. Unpack the body politics
4. SEXUAL TENSION IS GAMEPLAY
5. Aftercare Aftercare Aftercare Aftercare

AND REMEMBER: non-sex games have useful mechanics / systems for sex games

tired: making 100h games with like 2 min of sex in it

wired: MAKING GAMES ABOUT SEX, DOING SEX

Thanks! -

Love Interests, Sex, BDSM, and Mechanics

The Beast

The Beauty

wants to hurt you, but in the hot sense

The Stalker

has a huge nervous crush

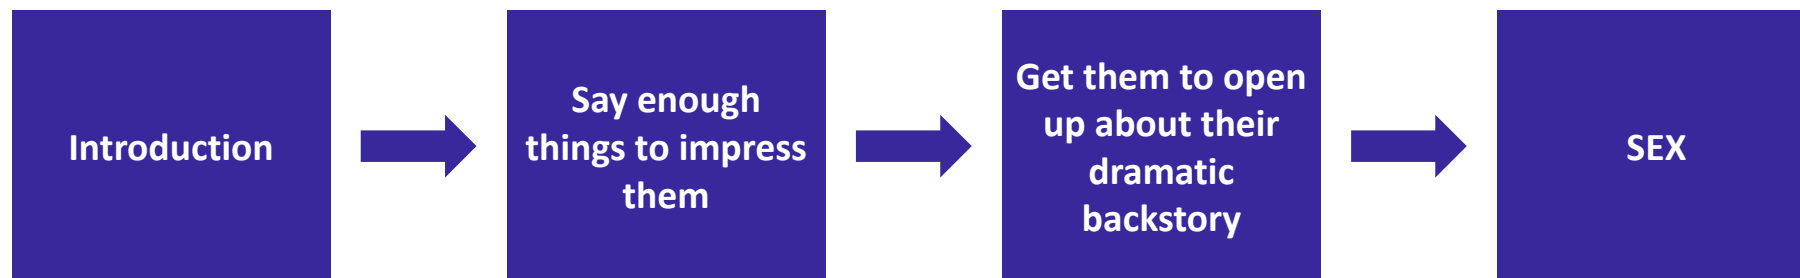

Everyone else

hates the Prince, in the normal sense

OTHER GAMES:

OTHER GAMES:

LADYKILLER:

Conveying character dynamics through tone and theming

Beauty scenes focus on a submissive Beast playing out a kink scene of the Beauty's construction, often involving pain and humiliation

Stalker scenes focus on an assertive Beast taking the lead while the Stalker makes corny jokes and being cute enough to get away with it

Conveying character dynamics through mechanics

The Beauty

- is the only way to remove suspicion points
- makes it possible to pick a lot of aggro choices
- hard to get a high votes ending

The Stalker

- adds 3 votes every night, making it easy to win
- requires you to play much more carefully

GROUNDWORK: Distinct characterization

WHAT YOU WRITE: Emotions and tension

WHAT THE PLAYER SEES: Hot sex, hopefully?????

Fading to black is a statement of confidence that you have expressed the emotional passion that lead to sex without even needing to show the physicality.

“Everything is sex
Except sex, which is power
You know power is just sex
Now ask yourself who's screwing you”
— Janelle Monae, Screwed

Eroticism works best when it entices with physical details, but keeps your interest by foregrounding what it means as communication.

Interesting choices are difficult, but important

Eroticism is tension — therefore either enforcing the power dynamic or resisting it can be hot.

That doesn't mean every power dynamic is just topping or bottom, though. Some examples of complications that give lots of room to work with:

- “I want to impress her!”
- “She'd be cute if she squirmed”
- “I want to see that smug look wiped off her face”
- “I need someone to take of me”

- “Will she still take me seriously if she sees me naked?”
- “I want to learn more about her”
- “If I annoy her more, I bet she'll push me even harder”

Choices are about the kind of reaction
the player wants to see

Choices can feature physicality, but only if the player can understand the differences in terms of what emotional response they want

When designing choices, create them such that the player can express:

What kind of emotional reaction do they want to see, in the context of that exact moment in the sex scene?

What kind of relationship dynamic do they want to see over the course of the entire game?

Can they be tempted to do something they wouldn't normally consider doing?

SEX AND INTIMACY AS GAME MECHANICS

This is all just a lot of words to say make choices that are fun to pick, and that the player will immediately understand why they're fun.

Setup Phase

Prior to play, players take turns adding songs to a list. This could be a playlist, mix CD, mixtape, or similar sequence of songs.

Play Phase

When the game begins, all players must engage³ in sexual activity⁴ with each other.

At the same time, begin playing the playlist, mix CD, or mixtape.

sex (-) mix

A game for two or more players.

Elimination

A player is eliminated from the game if they, at any time:

- mention or obviously react to the music that is playing
- start laughing⁵
- make a "grossed out" face⁶
- disengage completely from sexual activity⁷

One of the other players must call the elimination. Calling an elimination does not count as disengagement.⁸

If more than one player remains after the elimination, play continues. Eliminated players are not eligible for victory, but may continue to participate in sexual activity.⁹

MASSOCHISM & ME:

My Mutually Abusive Relationship With

DARK SOULS

LIKE AN ABUSIVE RELATIONSHIP

IT HURTS, BUT I CAN'T SEEM TO QUIT

Dark souls is like an abusive relationship, no matter how hard it tries to put me down I'll always come back!

SETUP • GETTING IN THE MOOD

- A. Are you both enthusiastically consenting?
- B. Decide who's the Human and who's the Alien
- C. Pick a difficulty level to choose how to communicate
- D. Choose whether to play with Kink cards
- E. Draw your starting hand of five cards
- F. Redraw your starting hand if you don't like it

A. OPENING RITUAL • CONSENT IS KEY!

Most games are played with consenting participants... but since Consentacle is a game about intimacy, you should make extra sure you're both into playing!

Ask your partner whether they want to play Consentacle with you!

- 4. You don't have to do everything. If you're not into these moves, you may Withdraw Consent for any turn. Instead of following any card instructions, each player may take 1 Trust token of their color.

C. PICK A DIFFICULTY LEVEL • WITH WORDS, BODIES, OR GAZES?

Consentacle can be played at various levels of difficulty that restrict how you and your partner can communicate. Regardless of difficulty, you may always do things like remind your partner to draw a card or help each other count tokens—the difficulty rules restrict you from talking about your cards!

DIFFICULTY 1 • PRACTICE CONSENT

Say whatever you want, plan your strategy and discuss your cards! Good for learning the game.

DIFFICULTY 2 • INNUENDO AGENDA

You are forbidden from saying the names of your cards... find another way to say it?

DIFFICULTY 3 • UNIVERSAL TRANSLATOR BREAKDOWN

You may not speak out loud about what cards you have, your strategy, or what to do next. Instead, communicate non-verbally with your hands, body, and expressions.

DIFFICULTY 4 • EYE TO EYE TO EYE

You may not use gestures or facial expressions. Stare your partner in the eye to know their thoughts.

DIFFICULTY 5 • AGENTS OF CONSENT

You must wear sunglasses and remain expressionless. Suits and ties recommended.

We will not tolerate any kind of racist, sexist, transphobic, homophobic or otherwise personally derogatory behavior.

If you have any trouble at our events, feel free to find any one of the heartbeat organisers and talk to them about your issue.
