VISION

Clear vision = Ownership = Quality

- Studio goals clearly stated
- Product goals clearly stated
- Process protects our efforts
- Reward for our efforts
- Commitment to China
- Commitment to employees
- Everyone is free

Spicy Horse Vision Statement

Spicy Horse is an innovative game development studio.

The company goal is to produce games we can be proud of. Games that reward the time and effort we spent working on them by achieving high levels of quality and entertainment value. To that end we will protect our efforts by religious adherence to quality standards, best practices, and processes. Planning and process allow us to have creative freedom and avoid joy-killers like crunch time, slipped schedules, and bad products. We will maintain an environment where everyone has the ability to input, criticize, critique, and add value to every aspect of the company.

Our products: Our products are innovative, creative, artful, soulful, story driven, and lead the marketplace. They provide quality entertainment to our audience. Our audience is global – anyone with a computer or game console and an interest in good story, great art, and accessible game play.

Our reward will come in several time categories: Immediate reward from a happy, healthy work environment, constant recognition of contribution, and feeling of ownership/importance for every person who contributes to the group effort. Near-term reward comes from improvement activities such as team adventures, learning programs, and career advancement. Medium-term rewards through the release of quality products – benefiting society through products that raise consciousness, improve quality of life, provide emotional outlet, and entertain. Long term reward from the establishment and maintenance of a mature studio –eventually placing the studio in a position to sell, be acquired, or continue being. Employees will be able to leverage these rewards to manage their own internal projects, start their own studios, retire, or just continue being happy doing what they re doing.

What makes us different (why we will succeed): Our employees: We attain succeed through our people. This comes from our ability to attract and engage the talent of exceptional artists, technologists, and producers. Ours are hard working, principled people. Our culture: A highly rewarding and nurturing environment in which to work. Our location: China is a country on the rise, where new ideas have a chance, where something unique can be built, and where the frontiers are still open.

Commitment to employees: The Company takes responsibility of employee care seriously. People depend on the Company. The Company promises transparent review and reward process, reliable payment, and a focus on reward and advancement.

"Everyone is free" – if you aren t happy here, we ll help you get happy elsewhere. Be good. Don t be evil. Maintain a strong vision. Take care of the team. Commit to quality.

The pleasure of work should be in the work, not only in the end product.

CHAPTER BOSS FIGHT DORMOUSE AND MARCH HARE 1/2

 Alice and Hatter get to the end of the chase and are confronted with two doors. One door is only accessible by Hatter and the other only by Alice. They split up.

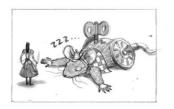

2. Upon entering door, Alice finds herself in a gear-chain powered elevator with the Dormouse. Across the chasm is another elevator with the Hatter and the Hare on it. She cannot cross the chasm.

 There is a teapot -like cannon contraption in the middle of the room, Dormouse hooks his tail on it, like a car hooking onto a trailer.

4. Dormouse is very slow due to the weight of the teapot, so you'll a see him scrurrying/crawling on the ground trying to move/turn and avoid Alice's attacks. However, the teapot has multiple auto-aiming tea-spewing cannons, so the objective is simply to avoid the tea while trying to hit Dormouse.

5. Once Dormouse is defeated, he falls asleep like he keeps doing in the story.

 ${\bf 6}.$ Elevators reach their destination. March Hare then jumps over to the platform where Dormouse is.

CONWAY'S LAM

Conway's Law: Any piece of software reflects the organizational structure that produced it. Vice-versa, the organization structure reflects the software it developed.

- First projects are critical
- Changing an existing team is difficult
 - burn it down
- Trust in change
 - allow environment and project to shape
- Don't force assumptions and fears on formation

XIAO IS HAO

Smaller teams building similar content with fewer total man hours.

Smaller teams are more efficient "combinatorics teaches: as number of agents involved in a process increases, the communication links between those agents increases exponentially allowing for potentially N(x) communication-link breakdown."

- Lower cost
- Better Communication
- Clearer responsibilities
- Less "by-stander" problem
- 10 is the optimum number
- Trust & Communication are still issues

Alice 2 Core Team

- 6 production directors
- 6 development directors
- 6 animators
- 12 tech
- 11 level design
- 8 concept art
- 5 tech art
- 1 sound assistant
- 1 testing assistant
- 56 core development team

RULES IN GENERAL

Be human, act humanely.

- Don't try to solve problems with money
- The larger a company grows the more likely you are to treat human beings like objects
- Stop growing when too big to know everyone's story
 - Judge slowly people are hurting & struggling in ways that we cannot see
- Worry is a wasted emotion Don't worry!
