What is the Information Horizon?

Information Horizon

- Games are possibility space generators
- The player is an explorer of possibility space
- The Known-Unknown. The edge of what the player can see.

This piece of cloth proves who the real murderer is. Who killed Neil Marshall, you ask?

Information Game Loop

1. PERCEPTION

2. ANALYSIS

- a. Integrate
- b. Eliminate
- c. Hypothesize

3. ACTION

1. Perception - The Lookout

- The player gains information about the possibility space
- Can be active or passive

2. Analysis - The Navigator

2a. Integrate

2b. Eliminate

2c. Hypothesis

- The player makes their best guess about the Information Horizon.
- Most important and satisfying step since it uses the player's imagination.

Making an Engaging Information Game Loop

- Consistent Mechanics
- Tools over Events
- Inflow of Relevant Information

Horizon Length

Horizon Length

Long Horizons - Deterministic Gameplay

Short Horizons - Probabilistic Gameplay

Good. I was growing impatient. Now let's observe the rest.

Gideon suggested setting the Coronet to have maximum aether output. I warned him that doing so is highly dangerous!

Takeaways

Takeaways

- The Information Horizon is the known-unknown part of the game.
- The 3-step Information Game Loop - Perception, Analysis, Action - is how players engage with the Information Horizon.
- The Horizon Length changes how deterministic or probabilistic the game becomes.
- Use hidden (but discoverable!) information to have the benefits of both!
